ATTACK SANITY OF MRS. EATON

Evidence Tends to Prove Her Victim of Delusions.

SHE FEARED THE ADMIRAL.

Witnesses Tell of Suspicious and Jealous—One Asserted That if Any Member of Family Was Insane It Was Mrs. Eaton—Her Married Daughter Was Expected to Testify.

Plymouth, Mass., Oct. 22.—That the prosecution will attempt to prove Mrs. Jennie May Eaton both guilty and insane was the belief here at the opening of the fifth day of evidence taken in the trial of Mrs. Eaton for the murder of Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton. In the light of the testimony the declaration that the prosecution will delve into the past and ancestry of the prisoner is significant. Witnesses testified regarding Mrs. Eaton's apparent groundless warnings that the admiral was insane and dangerous, and one witness stated he told Mrs. Eaton that any member of the family was in such a state.

Mrs. Charlotte N. Hill, a neighbor of the Eatons, testified that the admiral was in the best of spirits in the hours preceding his sickness. She said Mrs. Eaton called her husband a drug fiend. That Mrs. Eaton asked her to take him into her home because the admiral had mixed up some "stuff" for her to take and she was ill was the testimony of Mrs. Katherine Magoun of Assinippi the next witness. She was followed by Clarence Rice, merchant and undertaker of Rockland who told of Mrs. Eaton's declaration that her marriage with the admiral was a mesalliance and that the admiral flirted continually.

Abbie C. Cottrell of Hingham, housekeeper for the Eatons in 1909, was called.

"I am seventy-five years old, sir," she said. "All I have to say about the admiral is he was a gentleman and a most interesting man." She said Mrs. Eaton told her husband was a passionate and fiery man.

It was expected that the chief witness would be Mrs. Eaton's elder daughter, June, who is Mrs. Ralph Kays. Her testimony promised to be sensational. The courtroom was crowded with women eager to hear her.

ROYAL WELCOME FOR COLONEL ROOSEVELT

Brazilian President and Cabinet Greet the Hunter.

Rio de Janeiro, Oct. 22.—A representative of President Marshal Hermes Fonseca, all the Brazilian cabinet ministers and many other officials greeted Colonel Theodore Roosevelt when the steamship Vanduyck, held off by a severe storm, was able to enter the harbor.

The minister of Argentina with his staff, the heads of the Brazilian senate and chamber of deputies, the chief commissioner of police, members of the judiciary, the municipal council and the mayor of Rio Janeiro were among those who received Colonel Roosevelt and his party when they left the ship at the naval arsenal quay.

The colonel and the representative of the president led a brilliant procession to the arsenal, where a reception was held and the American visitors presented to all the high officials.

Arrangements have been prepared for Colonel Roosevelt in the Guanabara palace where he will be the guest of the government during his stay here. It is hoped that he will be able to remain in Rio de Janeiro the entire week.

PARIS TO CAIRO BY AIR.

Aviator Will Take in Constantinople and Jerusalem on Trip.

Paris, Oct. 22.—In a rainstorm and fog Aviator Pierre Dancourt, great grandson of Napoleon, got away on his grand tour of 3,150 miles flight to Cairo. He carried a passenger, Henri Roux, a former noncommissioned officer of the French army, and made the start from the Issy aerodrome, in the outskirts of Paris.

Dancourt planned to make the long air journey in three stages, stopping at Constantinople and Jerusalem. He was the first bird man to fly from Paris to Berlin without a stop.

Summed Trouble in Portugal. Madrid, Oct. 22.—Rumors of grave political disorders in Portugal are current in the Spanish capital, but no definite news of what has occurred can be obtained owing to the Portuguese censorship over dispatches.

Why Not Schools for Men?

No man ever feels the need of education so much as the man who sees opportunity for advancement open before him, but who does not dare to take it for fear that he can not rise to it. It is useless to say anything to such a man about neglected opportunities, and it is equally futile to say the same thing to the youth who is neglecting his studies. The first cannot go back and live his boyhood over; the latter cannot comprehend his danger, nor will he believe in his own possibilities, nor can he really study intelligently for which he is not sufficiently mature. The few who mature early enough in life to go through technical schools or colleges are provided for. Can we not provide men's schools for those who mature normally?—American Magazine.

A City That Was a Failure.

Of all the seven cities of Asia perhaps Sardin has the most interesting and romantic history, and yet, with all its natural advantages, its wealth, its famous rulers, its wise counselors, its victorious armies, it was the greatest failure of them all, says the Christian Herald. The richest man in the world, Croesus, was king of Sardin, the wisest man, Solon, was her guest, and yet, through overconfidence and lack of watchfulness, time and again it was surprised, conquered and all but destroyed, until at last the disintegrating rock and soil from its own citadel loosened by the winter rains and buried down by destructive earthquakes, buried the city thirty feet deep from the sight of man. It became a dead city, and it was buried by the forces of nature.

Night Train Late.

The passenger train which was scheduled to arrive in Clearfield at 11:10 Tuesday evening did not reach here until after 12 o'clock, a disabled coach causing the delay.

MRS. SULZER NOW ACCUSES M'CALL

Alleged, She Says, to Make Husband Obey Demands.

ANOTHER MURPHY ATTACK.

Ex-Governor Says Many Protests Were Made by Tammany When State Architect Was Ousted—Tells of Alleged Graft in State Capitol on Letting Contracts For Repairs.

New York, Oct. 22.—William Sulzer continues the recital of his full story, but it is not an exciting chapter. About the only new charge he makes is that Edward L. McCall urged on Mrs. Sulzer that she impress her husband with the advisability of doing the things demanded of him. The bulk of this statement refers to the removal of State Architect Hoefler.

It is copyrighted and appeared in full in the New York Mail. Following are extracts.

Copyright, 1913, by Mail and Express company.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 22.—The appalling political abuse revealed by Governor Sulzer's detailed story—with his charge that Edward L. McCall the present Tammany candidate for mayor acted as the boss' agent and intermediary in arranging the extraordinary interview that preceded and led up to the impeachment of the governor shocked the community.

"Mr. McCall constantly came to the executive mansion from New York," said Mrs. Sulzer. "He was always urging the governor to do this or that. He even came to me and said, 'Mrs. Sulzer, your husband must do these things, he must do them or he will be destroyed. You must make your husband do them.'"

Governor Sulzer wanted to tell the whole story under oath in court. So determined was he to take the stand that he had his whole examination, question and answer prepared by some of his lawyers and the evidence thus taken down in advance, under the most searching investigation covered all his dealings with Mr. Murphy and Murphy's emissaries and the most minute details of Sulzer's financial affairs last fall.

Governor Sulzer had a prepared statement reciting all the incidents just as he would have told them on the witness stand. It reads as follows:

Vast Sums Expended. "After I took office in January I learned that the state architect had expended more than $4,300,000 in the previous year, that this was done practically on the certificate of the state architect and that there had been no proper audit.

"It is true that the bills were O. K'd by the trustees of public buildings—namely, the governor, lieutenant governor and speaker of the assembly. This was done, however, by having a clerk carry the contracts or bills to each of the state officials named, and they used a regular office stamp approving the amounts stated in the vouchers.

"I learned also that the appropriation for the capitol for 1912 had been exceeded by nearly $500,000 and that there was no proper supervision.

Hennessey Reported Padded Payroll. "Mr. Hennessey found that the payroll on the electrical contracts had been padded.

"Before Hennessey had reported to the Senator Frawley came downstairs and made a protest to me against interfering with the work on the state capitol or on other state buildings and said he believed that there was no material truth in the charges against the state architect.

"I sent for Hennessey, who in my presence related to Senator Frawley the main facts in the case, but Frawley still persisted that nothing should be done with the state architect's office, at least until there had been further consideration of the case.

"I told Hennessey to return to the state architect and insist on his resignation. What happened between those two men I can only tell from Hennessey's recital to me. Hoefler told him that he was not a free agent, that he had no control over his deputies, that he had no control over his secretary, nor did he have any control over the men who checked up the work. He said they were all appointed through Tammany Hall.

The Fishless Fisherman.

"So you took a day off from your work and went fishing?" "Yes," replied the man who insists on being cheerful.

"Have any luck?" "Certainly. A day off is luck enough."—Washington Star.

WILL REMOVE TREES

Norway Maples a Failure as a Shade Tree in Clearfield.

The Shade Tree commission will cut down the Norway maples which line some of the streets of Clearfield. These trees, planted some years ago, have proven a nuisance, and the commission has decided to remove them and replace them with some other kind of tree, W. H. Patterson, of the commission, so stating to borough council Monday night. At that meeting of council Street Commissioner Graham reported that progress is being made in the repaving of Bigler avenue 700 feet of concrete having been laid.

MRS. COLE DELIGHTS A FAIR AUDIENCE

Delivered Excellent Lecture in High School Building

The lecture of Mrs. Ida B. Cole of Chautauque, N. Y. in the High School building Tuesday evening was listened to attentively by about 75 persons. The lecture was a most interesting one and pleased the people who were present.

Mrs. Cole advocated the use of the public school house as a social center and gave several instances of cities where instead of allowing the school building to remain useless except for six hours a day for five days in the week it is used for all the people of the neighborhood as a means of social relaxation and intellectual uplift and where the playground is used in summer vacations instead of sending the children adrift in the streets.

She urged a public library and a reading room. The Chautauque Circle of Lakewood, N. Y., has just received permission from the school board to use the High School library of 1,300 volumes as a public library and reading room and they are keeping it open to the public three evenings a week and Saturday and Sunday afternoons of a week. She outlined the work of the Chautauque reading circle with its course of home study, which is a liberal education.

A Circle will be organized in Clearfield during the coming week. Those interested should report to Mrs. E. J. Bouton, 409 Locust street.

The lecture Tuesday evening was under the auspices of the Women's club of Clearfield.

PLAIN FACTS FOR VOTERS

Why Oscar Mitchell Should be Elected Judge

LIQUOR ISSUE PARAMOUNT

As Judge Mitchell Would Enforce the "No Bottle" Rule—Would Refuse to Grant Licenses to Wh legalists—A Chance for Temperance People to Triumph.

Owing to the great demand of voters for the statement of the Committee of Allies relative to the candidacy of Oscar Mitchell, published in the Progress on Friday, October 10, the article is republished today. All voters are urged to read this statement.

Announcement of the fact that the allied temperance forces of Clearfield county have endorsed the candidacy of Oscar Mitchell for judge has been made and a statement of the reasons for the action is in order. Scarcely more than an epitome of those reasons can be given in this article. They are the basis of campaign material that will appear later.

Foremost among the reasons forcing the action is the fact that a considerable number of the conscientious voters of the county found themselves practically disfranchised by the results of the judicial primary. They cannot vote for either candidate nominated at that time without stultifying their convictions. That fact alone would justify the endorsement of a candidate acceptable to their views.

Not a Mere Protest.

But they did not enter the campaign simply as a protest—they see as good a chance for the election of their candidate as can be claimed by any other candidate. The ground for this confidence are solid, as will be apparent before this campaign is a week old.

The first question to be asked by interested persons will be: "In what respect is Mr. Mitchell's candidacy more acceptable to the temperance people of the county than the candidacy of the two other nominees?" The answer to this question is easy and convincing. The reasons are legion, but we will deal with but five of the more appealing ones in this article and that but briefly.

Will Enforce Rule.

First—Mr. Mitchell, if elected, will ENFORCE what has come to be known as the "no bottle" rule. The temperance people of the county may rest assured that there will be no dead-letter features connected with this highly beneficial phase of the administration Mr. Mitchell pledges.

Second—Mr. Mitchell, if elected, will make and enforce a rule forbidding treating in barrooms. The whole some effect that this promises is one of the most cheering things about his candidacy. But it is no new thing for a Pennsylvania judge to effectually prohibit treating in this way.

Will Refuse Wholesale.

Third—Mr. Mitchell, if elected, will grant no wholesale licenses. These accursed agents of debauchery can no longer exist in our county. That some may continue to exist in adjoining counties is a flabby reason why they should be allowed to flourish in our own county.

Fourth—Mr. Mitchell, if elected, will have no settled policy concerning the necessity of licensed houses in certain places—a policy that practically insures the relicensing year after year of a large number of hotels in the county and that in effect establishes what may be described as a stockade around a great majority of the hotels through which the temperance forces cannot break, a situation utterly incompatible with the advanced temperance sentiment of the county. The idea of the necessity of liquor anywhere is as abhorrent to Mr. Mitchell as to any one else, and his policy will be conforming to that notion not one inch further than the law compels. The people of the county will have opportunity far beyond that they have ever enjoyed to carry out their own policy, both as to single hotels and as to the hotels in the county. That is a boon of incalculable value within our reach.

An Unmired Candidate.

Fifth—Mr. Mitchell's candidacy is unmired by liquor influence. No licensed rum dealer will vote for him. No unlicensed man who hopes a change in the court may enable him to break into the monopoly of liquor vendors will vote for him. None of their sympathizers will vote for him. This consideration, if there were no others, would make the course of the temperance voter plain.

We submit that the foregoing facts as a whole present an incontrovertible argument for the election of Mr. Mitchell. We challenge the opposition to assaunt this proposition anywhere and everywhere they can.

It would seem to be needless, almost an affront, to invite temperance men to this position. It is theirs already.

GOOD ROADS MEETING

Will be Held in the Court House Friday Evening.

There will be a meeting of citizens interested in good roads at the court house Friday evening, October 24, at which Charles E. Foote, an experienced road builder will be present. The good roads question will be thoroughly discussed by Mr. Foote and local speakers.

This meeting will be non-political, as it is the desire of the local good roads committee to enlist the interest of all classes of people in behalf of improved highways in the state. All citizens who feel that they need further information relative to road building and the methods of improving the highways under state management should attend this meeting.

No Preaching Sunday.

There will be no preaching in the Methodist church at Woodland on Sunday next, owing to the absence of the pastor.

TABERNACLE MEETINGS GROW IN INTEREST

Attendance Increases and Good Results are Noted

Evangelist Hamilton preached a telling sermon at the Glen Ridge tabernacle on the theme "Peter's Denial". Over four hundred persons were present, and four persons came forward and confessed Christ at the close of the sermon.

The prayer meetings which are held in more than a dozen districts at the hour of 10:00 o'clock each day are growing in interest and are a decided aid to the meetings. One of the most interesting of the prayer meetings is the one held down on what is known as "left third" more than a mile down in the mines. The report of the number present and the prayers offered at this underground service is received each evening with great enthusiasm.

Both Mr. Hamilton and Prof. Leonard are gripping the entire community in a wonderful way and many persons from the surrounding towns are regularly attending the meetings.

Next Sunday's meeting for men, only promised to be a memorable one. The service will be held at 3:00 and the subject will be "Shame". A male quartette will assist with the singing.

POLITICAL JUDGES

When the courts are presided over by political judges the ends of justice are defeated, the people's interests are endangered and the courts become the mere mouthpieces of selfish interests. It has been charged in the campaign now being waged in Clearfield county that both of the Democratic candidates for judge, while posing as non-partisan, are in fact bitter partisans and that if elected the successful candidate will be under obligations to the political faction which has been aiding in the conduct of the campaign. It is also alleged that each of the Democratic candidates is striving for the victory because each of them is desirous of building up a political machine which shall control the Democratic party in this county. For years the people have deplored the fact that the judges of the state have had more regard for their own political advancement than for the welfare of the people. The candidate for judge who aspires to be political boss is more dangerous than the ward heeler, because the political judge has greater opportunities for doing harm to the people's interests, than has the ward heeler. And the political judge cannot be impartial, for he must cater to those who helped him to obtain his office. It cannot be said that the political judge is free from prejudice, that he will not be guided by his political bias in administering the law.

Oscar Mitchell, as the people's candidate for judge, cannot be accused of having political ambitions. He believes that a judge should be a man who can administer the law without being held accountable to any political party or faction. He believes that the people have a right to expect a judge to be impartial, just and fair to all classes of people, regardless of their political preferences. When he asks a man to support him at the polls he does not care what that man's politics is, but he feels that all men should be interested in keeping the courts out of the political mire, which cannot be done if a political judge is placed on the bench.

Mr. Mitchell is making no promises in this campaign, except the promise that he will administer the law with out prejudice without bias and to the best interests of all of the people, regardless of their political affiliations. He promises to transact the business of the courts expeditiously and as economically as possible. He promises that all who come before the county courts shall have justice done there, and he will not inquire as to what political party they happen to belong. He promises to give the duties of the office his careful attention and to act in all matters pertaining to the courts in such a way that the best interests of the people of the county shall be protected and advanced.

If it is true that the two Democratic candidates are planning to build up a big political machine in this county—and we have the word of the two Democratic newspapers for this charge—then the people who are opposed to putting upon the bench a man who has more regard for his own political aggrandizement than he has for the proper administration of the law should vote for Oscar Mitchell, who is free from all political alliances and who if elected will strictly attend to the duties of judge before the people of Clearfield county at this time.

THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Barrie G. Boose the Washington party candidate for district attorney, possesses the ability, temperament and experience in legal matters which go to make up an efficient prosecuting attorney. Mr. Boose, although nominated by the voters of the Washington party, is regarded by voters of all political parties as the best equipped candidate for district attorney, and he is being supported by all classes of voters.

Mr. Boose is a lawyer who has given proof of his capability. He is familiar with the duties of district attorney, and if elected, will give entire satisfaction to the people of the county. His election is freely predicted by those who have studied the political situation in this county and who realize that the tricks by which one of his rival candidates had his name placed on the Prohibition ballot at the primaries and the other received the Socialist nomination will help instead of injuring Mr. Boose.

CHARLES W. FREY.

When a candidate is known to be fully capable of discharging the duties of the office to which he aspires in a satisfactory manner the voters are inclined to give him their support no matter to which political party he holds allegiance. In these days of independent voting the candidate who has the confidence of the voters is more likely to succeed at the polls than is the candidate who is known to be a chronic office hunter and who may be incompetent and underserving. Charles W. Frey, candidate for sheriff, is competent, reliable and is popular with the voters of all political parties.

Charles W. Frey stands well with the people. He is a young man of much ability, and is favored by many voters because he has not displayed an inordinate desire to hold office, having been nominated because of his fitness and not because he demanded the nomination as a family right. If elected Mr. Frey will prove himself an efficient, obliging and courteous official. The voters of the county should elect Mr. Frey to the sheriffship because of his fitness and because he will give his whole attention to the duties of the office to which he aspires.

There must be much good in a man against whom his political enemies can not say a truthful word derogatory to his character. Vote for Oscar Mitchell for judge.

BONDS FAVORED BY MOTORISTS

There Are 80,000 Heartily Supporting the Measure

AUTOMOBILE FEES $1,200,000

Bonds Provide a Safe and Sane Way to Secure Prompt Construction of Modern Highways in Accord With Modern Methods.

The development of the automobile as a practical commercial factor produced a revolution in traffic on the roads. And the changes have been so rapid, and the motor car devoted to such a variety of uses, that those who have not kept up a close observation are amazed at the figures when they are presented.

From a purely pleasure vehicle the automobile has become a commercial necessity. Its range of usefulness is practically ten times that of the horse, either for load or for distance. Very recently, in addition to the ordinary passenger automobiles, and the auto-delivery wagons, and local auto trucks, there have appeared on the roads great automobile freight wagons, carrying eight to ten tons of freight, running on regular schedules, and carrying goods to and from points not reached or not well served by railroads. These auto-freight lines, wherever they have been installed, are filling a long felt want in providing for the traffic necessities of many communities, and their number is increasing wonderfully. Where there were ten of these auto-freight lines a year ago there are 100 now, and will be 1,000 a year or two hence.

The same is true of the auto-omnibus or stage lines. Hundreds of communities which have been striving vainly for years for interurban trolley lines, now find themselves well satisfied with an automobile stage line, which possesses many palpable advantages. This class of travel is also growing so fast that the great factories, with all their facilities, are unable to keep up with the demand for these vehicles.

These are the reasons why the Pennsylvania Motor Federation, through its Good Roads committee, has taken practical charge of the campaign for Good Roads in Pennsylvania. Its officials worked for Good Roads laws in 1907 and 1909 in the Legislature, and were on hand in 1911 when the splendid Sprout State Highway law was enacted and the constitutional amendment was launched on its course, and were again in evidence before the Legislature of 1913, for the repassage of the amendment resolutions, all of which plans were successfully carried through.

This organization assumes charge of the campaign to secure the approval of the amendment by the electors of the State at the polls. It assumes this work not only because of the intense interest of its members in the roads themselves, but because it is the only thoroughly organized body which possesses the facilities for carrying on such a campaign.

To bring all the facts and arguments clearly before the voters of Pennsylvania requires thorough organization, and equipment for presenting the subject to the people; and this organization and equipment the Pennsylvania Motor Federation possesses.

There are more than 80,000 automobiles in the State of Pennsylvania. That means one automobile to less than every mile and a quarter of roads in the State, one automobile to every 400 acres of land, one automobile in every $90,000 worth of assessed property, real and personal, in the State.

This year the automobiles pay into the State treasury in registration and other fees more than eight hundred thousand dollars. Next year the amount will probably reach a million two hundred thousand, or an increase of 100 per cent in two years, and long before the entire issue of bonds has been disposed of, and the roads improved, the automobile fees are likely to amount to a sum sufficient to pay much more than the two and a quarter million dollars which the interest and amortization of the bonds will cost.

In 1909, when there were 19,000 motor cars in the State, the idea that the number would double in five years was treated with derision. But the doubling occurred in a single year instead of five, and by the time the five years shall have expired, at the end of 1914, according to present indications, the number of motor vehicles will have reached more than five times the number.

Certainly the motorists want the roads built, but their wish for the roads is coupled with an interest in the upbuilding and development of the magnificent resources of the State, the enrichment of its people, the elimination of the waste in its energies and substance, and the material, moral and social welfare of all.

The motorists favor the issue of bonds for road building for the reason that this is the only safe and sane method of procedure, the only method that will secure the construction of the highways promptly and in accordance with modern methods, and because by the building of the highways an era of unusual prosperity must come upon the State in which all will share.

JANNUS AND HALL. Aviators Searching For the Missing Jewel Suffer Accident; Hall Hurt.

When Tony Jannus, an aviator went out in search of Albert J. Jewel, the aeronaut missing since Monday, he carried with him a passenger John R. Hall, to assist in searching the marshes for some clue to the unfortunate bird man. But the exploring machine met with a mishap like-wise. After it had gone up a few feet the machine crashed to earth, slightly injuring Hall. In one picture Hall is seen as he is being carried from the scene of the disaster. He was not badly hurt. The other picture shows the men before the start. It has been generally agreed by friends of Jewel that he was drowned last Monday, and there is little hope of ever recovering his body.

Criminals and Crime. Is the criminal so because he wants to be so? No more wicked fallacy was ever foisted upon a credulous world than this. Nobody at any period of the world ever wished to be criminal. Every one instinctively hates and fears crime. Every one is honest by nature. It is inherent in the soul. I have never met a criminal who did not hate his crime even more than his condemners hate it. The apparent exception is when the man does not consider his act a crime. He has killed because his victim exasperated him to it. He has robbed society because society made war on him. The offender hates his crime. But he is not ashamed of it? Now, that is true. He is not ashamed of it in the current sense. He hates it, he fears it, but it does not fill him with a sense of sin.—H. Fielding Hall in Atlantic Monthly.

Temperature of the Body. The heat of the body varies at different ages and different times of the day. Except when you are suffering from fever you are never so hot as when you are born. The temperature of a newborn baby is about 102 degrees, but during the first day it rapidly goes down to 97½ degrees, rising again to a little above the average temperature of a grownup person, which is about 98½ degrees. The heat of your body varies as much as two degrees in twenty-four hours. minimum is reached about 4 o'clock in the morning, when your vitality is at its lowest, and the maximum about 6 in the afternoon. People who work by night and sleep during the day, however, are coldest in the afternoon and warmest in the early morning. It is a remarkable fact that we never always die if our blood varies more than a few degrees either way. A temperature below 95 degrees or above 105 degrees is generally fatal. —W. H. Sloan's.

Amazing Disrespect. The reigning bore in Baltimore at one time was Professor L., and his favorite subject was the north pole. One day he met Jeffrey in a narrow lane and began instantly to talk of the north pole. Jeffrey in deep disgust and with all patience dashed past him, exclaiming, "Hang the north pole!" Shortly after Professor L., boiling over with indignation, met Sydney Smith. "Oh, my dear fellow," said Sydney. "never mind! No one minds what Jeffrey says, you know. He is a privileged person. He respects nothing, absolutely nothing. Why, you will scarcely credit it, but it is not more than a week since I heard him speak disrespectfully of the equator!"

Nice and Veal. Rice is the easiest of all common foods to digest and roast veal the most difficult.

.....VOTE FOR..... OSCAR MITCHELL THE PEOPLE'S CANDIDATE

¶ The name of OSCAR MITCHELL, candidate for Judge of Clearfield county, does not appear upon the official ballot. A fac-simile of the non-partisan ballot appears on the right of this article. In order to vote for OSCAR MITCHELL it will be necessary for the voter to paste a sticker in the blank space at the bottom of the ticket, under the name of Allison O. Smith. This can be done with little trouble. The stickers, with Mr. Mitchell's name are well gummed and there is no danger that they will fall off after being placed.

¶ Stickers can be had of regularly appointed watchers at the polls on November 4th. If no stickers are to be had, the voter can write OSCAR MITCHELL'S name in the blank at the bottom of the ticket.

Evidence Tends to Prove Her Victim of Delusions.

SHE FEARED THE ADMIRAL.

Witnesses Tell of Suspicious and Jealousies—One Asserted That if Any Member of Family Was Insane It Was Mrs. Eaton—Her Married Daughter Was Expected to Testify.

Plymouth, Mass., Oct. 22.—That the prosecution will attempt to prove Mrs. Jennie May Eaton both guilty and insane was the belief here at the opening of the fifth day of evidence taken in the trial of Mrs. Eaton for the murder of Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton. In the light of the testimony the declaration that the prosecution will delve into the past and ancestry of the prisoner is significant. Witnesses testified regarding Mrs. Eaton's apparent groundless warnings that the admiral was insane and dangerous, and one witness stated he told Mrs. Eaton that any member of the family was in such a state.

Mrs. Charlotte N. Hill, a neighbor of the Eatons, testified that the admiral was in the best of spirits in the hours preceding his sickness. She said Mrs. Eaton called her husband a drug fiend. That Mrs. Eaton asked her to take him into her home because the admiral had mixed up some "stuff" for her to take and she was ill was the testimony of Mrs. Katherine Magoun of Assinippi the next witness. She was followed by Clarence Rice, merchant and undertaker of Rockland who told of Mrs. Eaton's declaration that her marriage with the admiral was a mesalliance and that the admiral flirted continually.

Abbie C. Cottrell of Hingham, housekeeper for the Eatons in 1909, was called.

"I am seventy-five years old, sir," she said. "All I have to say about the admiral is he was a gentleman and a most interesting man." She said Mrs. Eaton told her husband was a passionate and fiery man.

It was expected that the chief witness would be Mrs. Eaton's elder daughter, June, who is Mrs. Ralph Kays. Her testimony promised to be sensational. The courtroom was crowded with women eager to hear her.

ROYAL WELCOME FOR COLONEL ROOSEVELT

Brazilian President and Cabinet Greet the Hunter.

Rio de Janeiro, Oct. 22.—A representative of President Marshal Hermes Fonseca, all the Brazilian cabinet ministers and many other officials greeted Colonel Theodore Roosevelt when the steamship Vanduyck, held off by a severe storm, was able to enter the harbor.

The minister of Argentina with his staff, the heads of the Brazilian senate and chamber of deputies, the chief commissioner of police, members of the judiciary, the municipal council and the mayor of Rio Janeiro were among those who received Colonel Roosevelt and his party when they left the ship at the naval arsenal quay.

The colonel and the representative of the president led a brilliant procession to the arsenal, where a reception was held and the American visitors presented to all the high officials.

Arrangements have been prepared for Colonel Roosevelt in the Guanabara palace where he will be the guest of the government during his stay here. It is hoped that he will be able to remain in Rio de Janeiro the entire week.

Descourt planned to make the long air journey in three stages stopping at Constantinople and Jerusalem. He was the first bird man to fly from Paris to Berlin without a stop.

Why Not Schools For Men?

No man ever feels the need of education so much as the man who sees opportunity for advancement open before him, but who does not dare to take it for fear that he can not rise to it. It is useless to say anything to such a man about neglected opportunities, and it is equally futile to say the same thing to the youth who is neglecting his studies. The first cannot go back and live his boyhood over; the latter cannot comprehend his danger, nor will he believe in his own possibilities, nor can he really study intelligently for which he is not sufficiently mature. The few who mature early enough in life to go through technical schools or colleges are provided for. Can we not provide men's schools for those who mature normally?—American Magazine.

A City That Was a Failure.

Of all the seven cities of Asia perhaps Sardin has the most interesting and romantic history, and yet, with all its natural advantages, its wealth, its famous rulers, its wise counselors, its victorious armies, it was the greatest failure of them all, says the Christian Herald. The richest man in the world, Croesus, was king of Sardin, the wisest man, Solon, was her guest, and yet, through overconfidence and lack of watchfulness, time and again it was surprised, conquered and all but destroyed, until at last the disintegrating rock and soil from its own citadel loosened by the winter rains and buried down by destructive earthquakes, buried the city thirty feet deep from the sight of man. It became a dead city, and it was buried by the forces of nature.

MRS. SULZER NOW ACCUSES M'CALL

Alleged, She Says, to Make Husband Obey Demands.

ANOTHER MURPHY ATTACK.

Ex-Governor Says Many Protests Were Made by Tammany When State Architect Was Ousted—Tells of Alleged Graft in State Capitol on Letting Contracts For Repairs.

New York, Oct. 22.—William Sulzer continues the recital of his full story, but it is not an exciting chapter. About the only new charge he makes is that Edward L. McCall urged on Mrs. Sulzer that she impress her husband with the advisability of doing the things demanded of him. The bulk of this statement refers to the removal of State Architect Hoefler.

It is copyrighted and appeared in full in the New York Mail. Following are extracts.

Copyright, 1913, by Mail and Express company.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 22.—The appalling political abuse revealed by Governor Sulzer's detailed story—with his charge that Edward L. McCall the present Tammany candidate for mayor acted as the boss' agent and intermediary in arranging the extraordinary interview that preceded and led up to the impeachment of the governor shocked the community.

"Mr. McCall constantly came to the executive mansion from New York," said Mrs. Sulzer. "He was always urging the governor to do this or that. He even came to me and said, 'Mrs. Sulzer, your husband must do these things, he must do them or he will be destroyed. You must make your husband do them.'"

Governor Sulzer wanted to tell the whole story under oath in court. So determined was he to take the stand that he had his whole examination, question and answer prepared by some of his lawyers and the evidence thus taken down in advance, under the most searching investigation covered all his dealings with Mr. Murphy and Murphy's emissaries and the most minute details of Sulzer's financial affairs last fall.

Governor Sulzer had a prepared statement reciting all the incidents just as he would have told them on the witness stand. It reads as follows:

Vast Sums Expended.

"After I took office in January I learned that the state architect had expended more than $4,300,000 in the previous year, that this was done practically on the certificate of the state architect and that there had been no proper audit.

"It is true that the bills were O. K'd by the trustees of public buildings—namely, the governor, lieutenant governor and speaker of the assembly. This was done, however, by having a clerk carry the contracts or bills to each of the state officials named, and they used a regular office stamp approving the amounts stated in the vouchers.

"I learned also that the appropriation for the capitol for 1912 had been exceeded by nearly $500,000 and that there was no proper supervision.

Hennessey Reported Padded Payroll.

"Mr. Hennessey found that the payroll on the electrical contracts had been padded.

"Before Hennessey had reported to the Senator Frawley came downstairs and made a protest to me against interfering with the work on the state capitol or on other state buildings and said he believed that there was no material truth in the charges against the state architect.

"I sent for Hennessey, who in my presence related to Senator Frawley the main facts in the case, but Frawley still persisted that nothing should be done with the state architect's office, at least until there had been further consideration of the case.

"I told Hennessey to return to the state architect and insist on his resignation. What happened between those two men I can only tell from Hennessey's recital to me. Hoefler told him that he was not a free agent, that he had no control over his deputies, that he had no control over his secretary, nor did he have any control over the men who checked up the work. He said they were all appointed through Tammany Hall.

The Fishless Fisherman.

"So you took a day off from your work and went fishing?"

"Yes," replied the man who insists on being cheerful.

"Have any luck?"

"Certainly. A day off is luck enough."—Washington Star.

Norway Maples a Failure as a Shade Tree in Clearfield.

The Shade Tree commission will cut down the Norway maples which line some of the streets of Clearfield. Patterson, of the commission, so stating to borough council Monday night.

At that meeting of council Street Commissioner Graham reported that progress is being made in the repaving of Bigler avenue 700 feet of concrete having been laid.

Mrs. Harry Kooker, of near Penfield, accidentally shot and killed herself at her home in that town Monday.

Mrs. Kooker had taken a revolver into the yard to shoot mark and the weapon was accidentally exploded the bullet hitting her in the head, resulting in her death a hour later.

The dead woman was a sister of Mrs. Charles Starr of DuBois.

MRS. COLE DELIGHTS A FAIR AUDIENCE

The lecture of Mrs. Ida B. Cole of Chautauque, N. Y. in the High School building Tuesday evening was listened to attentively by about 75 persons. The lecture was a most interesting one and pleased the people who were present.

Mrs. Cole advocated the use of the public school house as a social center and gave several instances of cities where instead of allowing the school building to remain useless except for six hours a day for five days in the week it is used for all the people of the neighborhood as a means of social relaxation and intellectual uplift and where the playground is used in summer vacations instead of sending the children adrift in the streets.

She urged a public library and a reading room. The Chautauque Circle of Lakewood, N. Y., has just received permission from the school board to use the High School library of 1,300 volumes as a public library and reading room and they are keeping it open to the public three evenings a week and Saturday and Sunday afternoons of a week. She outlined the work of the Chautauque reading circle with its course of home study, which is a liberal education.

A circle will be organized in Clearfield during the coming week. Those interested should report to Mrs. E. J. Bouton, 409 Locust street.

The lecture Tuesday evening was under the auspices of the Women's club of Clearfield.

PLAIN FACTS FOR VOTERS

Why Oscar Mitchell Should be Elected Judge

LIQUOR ISSUE PARAMOUNT

As Judge Mitchell Would Enforce the "No Bottle" Rule—Would Refuse to Grant Licenses to Wh legalists—A Chance for Temperance People to Triumph.

Owing to the great demand of voters for the statement of the Committee of Allies relative to the candidacy of Oscar Mitchell, published in the Progress on Friday, October 10, the article is republished today.

All voters are urged to read this statement.

Announcement of the fact that the allied temperance forces of Clearfield county have endorsed the candidacy of Oscar Mitchell for judge has been made and a statement of the reasons for the action is in order. Scarcely more than an epitome of those reasons can be given in this article. They are the basis of campaign material that will appear later.

Foremost among the reasons forcing the action is the fact that a considerable number of the conscientious voters of the county found themselves practically disfranchised by the results of the judicial primary. They cannot vote for either candidate nominated at that time without stultifying their convictions. That fact alone would justify the endorsement of a candidate acceptable to their views.

Not a Mere Protest.

But they did not enter the campaign simply as a protest—they see as good a chance for the election of their candidate as can be claimed by any other candidate. The ground for this confidence are solid, as will be apparent before this campaign is a week old.

The first question to be asked by interested persons will be: "In what respect is Mr. Mitchell's candidacy more acceptable to the temperance people of the county than the candidacy of the two other nominees?" The answer to this question is easy and convincing. The reasons are legion, but we will deal with but five of the more appealing ones in this article and that but briefly.

Will Enforce Rule.

First—Mr. Mitchell, if elected, will ENFORCE what has come to be known as the "no bottle" rule. The temperance people of the county may rest assured that there will be no dead-letter features connected with this highly beneficial phase of the administration Mr. Mitchell pledges.

Second—Mr. Mitchell, if elected, will make and enforce a rule forbidding treating in barrooms. The whole some effect that this promises is one of the most cheering things about his candidacy. But it is no new thing for a Pennsylvania judge to effectually prohibit treating in this way.

Will Refuse Wholesale.

Third—Mr. Mitchell, if elected, will grant no wholesale licenses. These accursed agents of debauchery can no longer exist in our county. That some may continue to exist in adjoining counties is a flabby reason why they should be allowed to flourish in our own county.

Fourth—Mr. Mitchell, if elected, will have no settled policy concerning the necessity of licensed houses in certain places—a policy that practically insures the relicensing year after year of a large number of hotels in the county and that in effect establishes what may be described as a stockade around a great majority of the hotels through which the temperance forces cannot break, a situation utterly incompatible with the advanced temperance sentiment of the county. The idea of the necessity of liquor anywhere is as abhorrent to Mr. Mitchell as to any one else, and his policy will be conforming to that notion not one inch further than the law compels. The people of the county will have opportunity far beyond that they have ever enjoyed to carry out their own policy, both as to single hotels and as to the hotels in the county. That is a boon of incalculable value within our reach.

An Unmolested Candidate.

Fifth—Mr. Mitchell's candidacy is unmolested by liquor influence. No licensed rum dealer will vote for him. No unlicensed man who hopes a change in the court may enable him to break into the monopoly of liquor vendors will vote for him. None of their sympathizers will vote for him. This consideration, if there were no others, would make the course of the temperance voter plain.

We submit that the foregoing facts as a whole present an incontrovertible argument for the election of Mr. Mitchell. We challenge the opposition to assaunt this proposition anywhere and everywhere they can.

Committee of the Allies.

GOOD ROADS MEETING

Will be Held in the Court House Friday Evening.

There will be a meeting of citizens interested in good roads at the court house Friday evening, October 24, at which Charles E. Foote, an experienced road builder will be present. The good roads question will be thoroughly discussed by Mr. Foote and local speakers.

This meeting will be non-political, as it is the desire of the local good roads committee to enlist the interest of all classes of people in behalf of improved highways in the state. All citizens who feel that they need further information relative to road building and the methods of improving the highways under state management should attend this meeting.

No Preaching Sunday.

There will be no preaching in the Methodist church at Woodland on Sunday next, owing to the absence of the pastor.

Attendance Increases and Good Results are Noted

Evangelist Hamilton preached a telling sermon at the Glen Ridge tabernacle on the theme "Peter's Denial". Over four hundred persons were present and four persons came forward and confessed Christ at the close of the sermon.

The prayer meetings which are held in more than a dozen districts at the hour of 10:00 o'clock each day are growing in interest and are a decided aid to the meetings. One of the most interesting of the prayer meetings is the one held down on what is known as "left third" more than a mile down in the mines. The report of the number present and the prayers offered at this underground service is received each evening with great enthusiasm.

Both Mr. Hamilton and Prof. Leonard are gripping the entire community in a wonderful way and many persons from the surrounding towns are regularly attending the meetings.

Next Sunday's meeting for men, only promised to be a memorable one. The service will be held at 3:00 and the subject will be "Shame". A male quartette will assist with the singing.

POLITICAL JUDGES

When the courts are presided over by political judges the ends of justice are defeated, the people's interests are endangered and the courts become the mere mouthpieces of selfish interests. It has been charged in the campaign now being waged in Clearfield county that both of the Democratic candidates for judge, while posing as non-partisan, are in fact bitter partisans and that if elected the successful candidate will be under obligations to the political faction which has been aiding in the conduct of the campaign.
It is also alleged that each of the Democratic candidates is striving for the victory because each of them is desirous of building up a political machine which shall control the Democratic party in this county.
For years the people have deplored the fact that the judges of the state have had more regard for their own political advancement than for the welfare of the people. The candidate for judge who aspires to be political boss is more dangerous than the ward heeler, because the political judge has greater opportunities for doing harm to the people's interests, than has the ward heeler. And the political judge cannot be impartial, for he must cater to those who helped him to obtain his office. It cannot be said that the political judge is free from prejudice, that he will not be guided by his political bias in administering the law.

Oscar Mitchell, as the people's candidate for judge, cannot be accused of having political ambitions. He believes that a judge should be a man who can administer the law without being held accountable to any political party or faction. He believes that the people have a right to expect a judge to be impartial, just and fair to all classes of people, regardless of their political preferences. When he asks a man to support him at the polls he does not care what that man's politics is, but he feels that all men should be interested in keeping the courts out of the political mire, which cannot be done if a political judge is placed on the bench.

Mr. Mitchell is making no promises in this campaign, except the promise that he will administer the law without prejudice without bias and to the best interests of all of the people, regardless of their political affiliations. He promises to transact the business of the courts expeditiously and as economically as possible. He promises that all who come before the county courts shall have justice done them, and he will not inquire as to what political party they happen to belong. He promises to give the duties of the office his careful attention and to act in all matters pertaining to the courts in such a way that the best interests of the people of the county shall be protected and advanced.

If it is true that the two Democratic candidates are planning to build up a big political machine in this county—and we have the word of the two Democratic newspapers for this charge—then the people who are opposed to putting upon the bench a man who has more regard for his own political aggrandizement than he has for the proper administration of the law should vote for Oscar Mitchell, who is free from all political alliances and who if elected will strictly attend to the duty for judge before the people of Clearfield county at this time.

THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Barrie G. Boose the Washington party candidate for district attorney, possesses the ability temperament and experience in legal matters which go to make up an efficient prosecuting attorney. Mr. Boose, although nominated by the voters of the Washington party, is regarded by voters of all political parties as the best equipped candidate for district attorney, and he is being supported by all classes of voters.
Mr. Boose is a lawyer who has given proof of his capability. He is familiar with the duties of district attorney, and if elected, will give entire satisfaction to the people of the county. His election is freely predicted by those who have studied the political situation in this county and who realize that the tricks by which one of his rival candidates had his name placed on the Prohibition ballot at the primaries and the other received the Socialist nomination will help instead of injuring Mr. Boose.

CHARLES W. FREY.

When a candidate is known to be fully capable of discharging the duties of the office to which he aspires in a satisfactory manner the voters are inclined to give him their support no matter to which political party he holds allegiance. In these days of independent voting the candidate who has the confidence of the voters is more likely to succeed at the polls than is the candidate who is known to be a chronic office hunter and who may be incompetent and unde-serving. Charles W. Frey, candidate for sheriff, is competent, reliable and is popular with the voters of all political parties.

Charles W. Frey stands well with the people. He is a young man of much ability, and is favored by many voters because he has not displayed an inordinate desire to hold office, having been nominated because of his fitness and not because he demanded the nomination as a family right. If elected Mr. Frey will prove himself an efficient obliging and courteous official. The voters of the county should elect Mr. Frey to the sheriffship because of his fitness and because he will give his whole attention to the duties of the office to which he aspires.

There must be much good in a man against whom his political enemies can not say a truthful word derogatory to his character. Vote for Oscar Mitchell for judge.

BONDS FAVORED
BY MOTORISTS

There Are 80,000 Heartily Supporting the Measure

AUTOMOBILE FEES $1,200,000

Bonds Provide a Safe and Sane Way to Secure Prompt Construction of Modern Highways in Accord With Modern Methods.

The development of the automobile as a practical commercial factor produced a revolution in traffic on the roads. And the changes have been so rapid, and the motor car devoted to such a variety of uses, that those who have not kept up a close observation are amazed at the figures when they are presented.

From a purely pleasure vehicle the automobile has become a commercial necessity. Its range of usefulness is practically ten times that of the horse, either for load or for distance.
Very recently, in addition to the ordinary passenger automobiles, and the auto-delivery wagons, and local auto trucks, there have appeared on the roads great automobile freight wagons, carrying eight to ten tons of freight, running on regular schedules, and carrying goods to and from points not reached or not well served by railroads. These auto-freight lines, wherever they have been installed, are filling a long felt want in providing for the traffic necessities of many communities, and their number is increasing wonderfully. Where there were ten of these auto-freight lines a year ago there are 100 now, and will be 1,000 a year or two hence.

The same is true of the auto-omnibus or stage lines. Hundreds of communities which have been striving vainly for years for interurban trolley lines, now find themselves well satisfied with an automobile stage line, which possesses many palpable advantages. This class of travel is also growing so fast that the great factories, with all their facilities, are unable to keep up with the demand for these vehicles.

These are the reasons why the Pennsylvania Motor Federation,
through its Good Roads committee, has taken practical charge of the campaign for Good Roads in Pennsylvania. Its officials worked for Good Roads laws in 1907 and 1909 in the Legislature, and were on hand in 1911 when the splendid Sprout State Highway law was enacted and the constitutional amendment was launched on its course, and were again in evidence before the Legislature of 1913, for the repassage of the amendment resolutions, all of which plans were successfully carried through.

This organization assumes charge of the campaign to secure the approval of the amendment by the electors of the State at the polls. It assumes this work not only because of the intense interest of its members in the roads themselves, but because it is the only thoroughly organized body which possesses the facilities for carrying on such a campaign.

To bring all the facts and arguments clearly before the voters of Pennsylvania requires thorough organization, and equipment for presents the subject to the people; and this organization and equipment the Pennsylvania Motor Federation
possesses.

There are more than 80,000 automobiles in the State of Pennsylvania.
That means one automobile to less than every mile and a quarter of roads in the State, one automobile to every 400 acres of land, one automobile in every $90,000 worth of assessed property, real and personal, in the State.

This year the automobiles pay into the State treasury in registration and other fees more than eight hundred thousand dollars. Next year the amount will probably reach a million two hundred thousand, or an increase of 100 per cent in two years, and long before the entire issue of bonds has been disposed of, and the roads improved, the automobiles fees are likely to amount to a sum sufficient to pay much more than the two and a quarter million dollars which the interest and amortization of the bonds will cost.

In 1909, when there were 19,000 motor cars in the State, the idea that the number would double in five years was treated with derision. But the doubling occurred in a single year instead of five, and by the time the five years shall have expired, at the end of 1914, according to present indications, the number of motor vehicles will have reached more than five times the number.

Certainly the motorists want the roads built, but their wish for the roads is coupled with an interest in the upbuilding and development of the magnificent resources of the State, the enrichment of its people, the elimination of the waste in its energies and substance, and the material, moral and social welfare of all.
The motorists favor the issue of bonds for road building for the reason that this is the only safe and sane method of procedure, the only method that will secure the construction of the highways promptly and in accordance with modern methods, and because by the building of the highways an era of unusual prosperity must come upon the State in which all will share.

JANNUS AND HALL.
Aviators Searching For
the Missing Jewel Suffer Accident; Hall Hurt.

When Tony Jannus, an aviator went out in search of Albert J. Jewel, the aeronaut missing since Monday, he carried with him a passenger John R. Hall, to assist in searching the marshes for some clues to the unfortunate bird man. But the exploring machine met with a mishap likewise. After it had gone up a few feet the machine crashed to earth, slightly injuring Hall. In one picture Hall is seen as he is being carried from the scene of the disaster. He was not badly hurt.
The other picture shows the men before the start. It has been generally agreed by friends of Jewel that he was drowned last Monday, and there is little hope of ever recovering his body.

Criminals and Crime.
Is the criminal so because he wants to be so? No more wicked fallacy was ever foisted upon a credulous world than this. Nobody at any period of the world ever wished to be criminal.
Every one instinctively hates and fears crime. Every one is honest by nature.
It is inherent in the soul. I have never met a criminal who did not hate his crime even more than his condemners hate it. The apparent exception is when the man does not consider his act a crime. He has killed because his victim exasperated him to it. He has robbed society because society made war on him. The offender hates his crime.
But he is not ashamed of it?
Now, that is true. He is not ashamed of it in the current sense. He hates it, he fears it, but it does not fill him with a sense of sin.—H. Fielding Hall in Atlantic Monthly.

Temperature of the Body.
The heat of the body varies at different ages and different times of the day. Except when you are suffering from fever you are never so hot as when you are born. The temperature of a newborn baby is about 102 degrees, but during the first day it rapidly goes down to 97½ degrees, rising again to a little above the average temperature of a grownup person, which is about 98½ degrees. The heat of your body varies as much as two degrees in twenty-four hours.

The minimum is reached about 4 o'clock in the morning, when your vitality is at its lowest, and the maximum about 6 in the afternoon. People who work by night and sleep during the day, however, are coldest in the afternoon and warmest in the early morning. It is a remarkable fact that we never always die if our blood varies more than a few degrees either way. A temperature below 95 degrees or above 105 degrees is generally fatal. —H. Fielding Hall.

Amazing Disrespect.
The reigning bore in Baltimore at one time was Professor L., and his favorite subject was the north pole. One day he met Jeffrey in a narrow hall and began instantly to talk of the north pole. Jeffrey in deep disgust and of all patience departed past him, exclaiming, "Hang the north pole!" Shortly after Professor L., being overwhelmed with indignation, met Sydney Smith.
"Oh, my dear fellow," said Sydney
"never mind! No one minds what Jeffrey says, you know. He is a phrenological person. He respects nothing—absolutely nothing. Why, you will scarcely credit it, but it is not more than a week since I heard him speak disrespectfully of the equator!"

Nice and Veal.
Rice is the easiest of all common foods to digest and roast veal the most difficult.

.....VOTE FOR.....
OSCAR MITCHELL
THE PEOPLE'S CANDIDATE

¶ The name of OSCAR
MITCHELL, candidate for Judge of Clearfield county, does not appear upon the official ballot. A fac-simile of the non-partisan ballot appears on the right of this article. In order to vote for OSCAR MITCHELL it will be necessary for the voter to paste a sticker in the blank space at the bottom of the ticket,
under the name of Allison O. Smith. This can be done with little trouble. The stickers, with Mr. Mitchell's
name are well gummed
and there is no danger
that they will fall off after being placed.

¶ Stickers can be had
of regularly appointed watchers at the polls on November 4th. If no stickers are to be had, the voter can write OSCAR MITCHELL'S name in the blank at the bottom of the ticket.
